Grassy Waters Festival to promote Pahokee

Tammy Jackson
Staff Reporter

The Pahokee Chamber of Commerce will have the Grassy Waters Festival and Car Show on Saturday, Nov. 20, at the Pahokee Marina Park, and the planning committee for the event have worked so diligently that it is almost guaranteed that those people attending will have a great time.

Festival activities are planned for Saturday, however, a Gospel Sing will be held Thursday, Nov. 18, at 7:30 p.m. at Good Shepherd Church of God, 1800 Bacom Point Road.

On Saturday, events are planned to cover the entire day and food and entertainment will be available. There is no admission charge for the event. However, the chamber is working with WPTV Channel 5 and the Food For Families Campaign, and those attending are asked to bring a canned good or non-perishable food item. The foods collected during the event will remain in the area and feed those who are less fortunate.

A crowd of approximately 2,000 people is anticipated to be in attendance during the festival. Members of the Pahokee Chamber of Commerce and those on the festival planning committee traveled to West Palm Beach in hopes of bringing their attendance to Pahokee. Larry Wright, festival vendor chairman, said, "We've pushed this event on the coast."

Students from Pahokee High School ROTC will participate in ceremonies at the festival. They will also help the city officers police the events for the day.

The art department at the high school made signs for the festival and the public is invited to attend.

"I'm very devoted in helping Pahokee come back," said Mr. Wright. "The festival is a good example of churches and schools working together. We believe this is our breakthrough year."

The community of Pahokee consists of different ethnic backgrounds ranging from Cubans, Mexicans, Haitians, African Americans and Caucasians. "We would like to eventually bring all of those people together," Mr. Wright commented.

Students at Pahokee High School and residents in the community will also be at the festival displaying art work at an art show.

Mr. Wright said that the chamber and the police officers are both concentrating on crowd control. Parking will be available over the dike.

"We are so thankful for the support that we've had. There are enthusiastic people on the committee, and the schools have worked with the chamber so well," said Mr. Wright.

Mr. Wright went on to say that the committee members are already planning for next year's festival. He said the car show will be bigger next year, the Ultra Lites will participate, and an air show and a boat show is planned.

Local businesses who donated financial support to the festival are: Foodland, Southern Bell, Tillis' Homestead Store, Royal's Furniture Co. and Springfield Bedding, Mid-State Ultralites, Flo-Sun, Inc. and Dixie Fried Chicken.

Hurston Museum building fund gets $10,000 boost from Attorney Gary Stuart Attorney Willie E. Gary brought more than his speech to the Site Dedication Reception sponsored Sunday by the Zora Neale Hurston Roof Garden Museum at their new location inside Pioneer Park. He also brought his checkbook.

He spoke about the museum's mission to help children, with praise. "We've got to start with them while they're young," he said. "It is then that we can make the greatest impact. This organization helps children to see and appreciate their past, and in doing that, everybody has a chance at a brighter future."

Attorney Gary told personal stories about achievement against the odds. He "got witnesses" in the audience of nearly 100, who identified with, and admired, his plight from "sharecropper's son" to "lifestyles of the Rich and Famous", and he left behind $10,000, as he rode off into the sunset toward Stuart.

"We all need to help this museum," he said. "They can't accomplish their goals alone. And, they shouldn't have to. This museum is for all of us." For his contribution, Mr. Gary's name will be placed on a brass plaque at the museum's entrance.

Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative drops opposition to NAFTA

The Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida has dropped its opposition to the proposed North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) since the concerns of Florida agriculture have been addressed, said George H. Wedgworth, president.

"The sugar provisions in NAFTA have been corrected to include corn sweeteners in its definition of sweeteners in determining net export status for Mexico," Mr. Wedgworth said. "This takes care of our concern of woding the domestic market with sugar which would be displaced by the use of corn sweeteners in the soft drink industry. This provisions also negate our concern about providing Mexico with unlimited access to the United States market when domestic producers do not have unlimited access."

"We understand that both the state's citrus growers and fresh vegetable producers have been provided with price and volume safeguards which takes care of their concerns," Wedgworth said.

"The Florida Congressional Delegation, led by Congressman Tom Lewis, is to be commended for their excellent job in looking out for Florida's agricultural industry. Now that our concerns have been addressed, we encourage the delegation to support NAFTA," he said.

By providing safeguards for Florida agriculture, more than 127,000 agricultural jobs of the state's $6.1 billion agricultural industry have been preserved. The Cooperative is made up of 55 small to medium size sugarcane farmers located in the Everglades Agricultural Area. The Cooperative employs over 900 people during the harvest season with an annual payroll in excess of $27 million.

Local Farm Bureau is celebrating Farm-City Week

Local farm leaders are preparing for Farm-City Week 1993. Agriculture is one of Florida's largest industries, an industry not often understood by Florida's growing urban population. Farm-City Week is designed to promote a better understanding between farm and city residents. This year's observance extends from November 18 through November 24.

Western Palm Beach County Farm Bureau will present Farm-City Week programs to local civic clubs and elementary schools and conclude the week with a farm tour. Approximately 50 vocational ag students from Jupiter High School will tour vegetable and sugar cane farms in the Everglades Agricultural Area.

This will be the 38th annual observance of Farm-City Week. Last year more than 18,000 communities participated in the United States and Canada. A Presidential Proclamation and a joint Congressional Resolution have called for Farm-City Week observances each year since the inception of the event.

Farm-City Week has won the Freedom Foundation's Distinguished Service Award and the Silver Anvil Award from the Public Relations Society of America.

In western Palm Beach County, the following agricultural products are produced: sugar, celery, lettuce, parsley, sweet corn, radishes, carrots, leafy vegetables, rice, and soy.

Western Palm Beach County Farm Bureau hopes that the events and activities of Farm-City Week will create a greater awareness in cities of the types and sizes of farms in our area.

If farm residents can understand urban growth, and city residents can understand the concerns of agriculture, there will be a greater chance of the two working together to solve common problems such as environmental and governmental issues.

November is National Alzheimer's Disease Month

Alzheimer's disease. Most people have heard of it. They know it is a progressive, age-related, incurable illness that over time impairs the brain's ability to function normally. But few individuals realize the terrible impact of Alzheimer's on America's elderly population, or the staggering number of people who have fallen victim to the disease.

A recent study conducted by Kaagan Research Associates, Inc. determined that nearly all adult Americans (97 percent), have heard of Alzheimer's disease, but the vast majority (83 percent) cannot estimate how many Americans are currently afflicted. Of those who did provide an estimate, only two percent of the survey population gave a figure close to the actual numbers of four million.

When asked how serious a problem Alzheimer's would be in the next 10 to 15 years, the out of three respondents (34 percent) indicated that Alzheimer's would be less serious than it is today. In reality, over 250,000 new cases of Alzheimer's disease are diagnosed every year, and the numbers are expected to increase as more Americans reach their senior years.

In other words, the general public's awareness of Alzheimer's is quite high; unfortunately, their familiarity with the disease remains low.

In an effort to change these current misperceptions, and in recognition of November, which is National Alzheimer's Disease Month, the American Health Assistance Foundation (AHA) has produced this informational advisory to help increase the public's understanding of Alzheimer's disease. The American Health Assistance Foundation is a non-profit organization devoted to funding research on and educating the public about age-related and degenerative diseases, particularly Alzheimer's disease. Since 1985, the foundation's Alzheimer's Disease Research program has awarded research grants totaling more than $20.5 million to universities and medical centers around the world.

Several free publications are available about Alzheimer's disease by calling 1-800-437-AHAF. Locally, the Alzheimer's Association has a day care center at the Good Shepherd Church of God on Bacom Point Road in Pahokee. They are always seeking volunteers. Call and offer your help by calling the church.

Thanks

Hello. This is Patricia Harvey and Lupe Sandova. We're calling in reference to a job well done by the Florida Highway Patrol.

Today they were located on U.S. 441 on Deadman's Curve as you're going to Pahokee. They were giving out car seats to the needy - the people who did not have car seats for their young children.

They also did a short presentation as they gave the car seats to each mom. They showed them how to use the car seat properly, and demonstrated everything.

We just wanted to say what a great thing it was. It needs to be done more often, because a lot of people are riding around without having their child in a car seat.

We would also like to thank Trooper John Chultz and Lt. Richard Helton for a job well done.

Please buckle your child up because it could save their life.

What should we believe?

I just wondered. Is Pahokee actually going to enforce the codes on the garbage cans being left beside the street or is that all a farce? Are we just going to stay "Trash can city?"

Editor's note: We spoke with Pahokee's City Manager Ken Schenck who said some homeowners are still leaving their cans out, but most are complying with the new regulations. A second letter is being sent to those not in compliance and if they continue to leave their cans out, the Code Enforcement Board will get involved.

In response to last week's Speak Out: Belle Glade's Director of Public Safety Michael Miller said he would like to respond to last week's Speak Out caller who complained about speeding on Avenue E in the morning. He said he would like to thank the caller for their concern. He added the police department is committed to controlling speeding in the City of Belle Glade and Avenue E is one of their concerns.

At that time of the morning, and in the afternoon when school children are going to and from school, officers are concentrating their efforts in the school zone areas.

Breast cancer diagnose may soon be more reliable

By Rick Jones

University of Florida News
Physicians may soon diagnose breast cancer more reliably and cost effectively thanks to a new way of reading mammograms developed by a University of Florida engineering professor.

Andrew Laine, a professor of computer & information sciences at UF's College of Engineering, is working with three colleagues in the Department of Radiology at UF's College of Medicine to develop techniques to enhance subtle signs in mammograms that may indicate breast cancer.

Laine's research uses a mathematical tool called wavelet analysis to improve computer-scanned images of mammograms, bring out potentially cancerous features that would otherwise be difficult to distinguish.

"Wavelet analysis is simply a way of ripping apart an image and gluing it back together again in a non-destructive way," Laine said. "When you rip the image apart, there is an opportunity to modify the representation and then glue it back together again. The hope is that after you reconstruct the image, the features of interest will be more obvious, more apparent."

According to the American Cancer Society, breast cancer is still the most common form of cancer for American women and accounts for 30 percent of all cancers. One in nine American women will develop breast cancer in her lifetime, and the ACS estimates that 150,000 American women will contract breast cancer in 1993.

Dr. Barbara Steinbach, professor and director of mammography in the Department of Radiology and a collaborator on this project, said about 9 percent of breast cancers will not be detected with standard mammograms.

The research focuses on three wavelet functions that will bring out three specific features that could indicate cancer. Those possible signs of cancer are microcalcifications, spicules and masses. Microcalcifications, which show up as small white dots on x-rays, are cancerous approximately 20 percent of the time, Steinbach said. Spiculated masses, which have small rays shooting off a central area, have a 95-percent chance of being cancerous if they are big enough to be felt, she said. Other masses can be either benign or cancerous.

"We're hoping that methods of wavelet analysis will increase the contrast either around the mass itself or in showing the difference between normal tissue and the cancer," Steinbach said. "It would probably take a little bit longer to analyze than it takes right now, but we're hoping it will give a more reliable diagnosis."

Because the breast is composed of soft tissue, radiologists must search diligently to pick out the correct shades of gray that indicate cancer, Laine said. It is especially difficult with dense breast tissue, usually found in women 30-45 years old who are in the latter part of their child-bearing years with their milk-producing glandular system still active. "The human visual system can discern, depending how well you are trained, only between 64 and 128 levels of gray," Laine said. "Our inability to perceive the subtle variations of contrast that exist in mammograms is where the weakness is and that's where these algorithms and techniques become useful."

Another part of the project is being headed up by radiology professor Janice Honeyman, who is developing a workstation where radiologists would employ the new technology.

"Right now, we put up film on a viewbox and process the images with a magnifying glass and bright light," she said. "We'll mimic those functions, but when you are, for example, comparing the left and right breasts for symmetry, the computer can actually do a sort of subtraction of one breast from the other to see how closely the two match. We'll be able to use the same function to compare new studies with old studies. It's really important to always compare with the previous year's results because the subtle changes can show abnormalities."

Laine's group is preparing a series of studies to be done by radiologists, who will compare these methods with the traditional x-rays. The three-year research has received $1.6 million from the U.S. Army Medical Research & Development Command and the Whitaker Foundation.

Holiday Blues

Dear Readers:

The holiday season is fast approaching. We mental health professionals advise the public every year that the winter holidays can be difficult times for many. Unfortunately, such advance warnings in and of themselves don't necessarily stave off sadness. The holidays represent times when expectations are high. People expect to be showered with love, material things and a sense of spiritual contentment. Although it obviously would be wonderful if you were truly blessed in the aforementioned ways, many folks simply are not so fortunate. Following is a mini survival guide for those whose wishes will not all come true this holiday season.

1. LOVE - It has been said by poets and psychological researchers alike that "people can't live without love." While such statements might sound quite dramatic, I don't believe that they are strictly true. It might be more accurate to say that people don't want to live without love. Given that most people are searching for love most of the time, I must point out that there is no reason to expect that love is more likely to come your way during the holidays. Love arrives when cupid is ready, not necessarily when you want it. (Married persons in poor relationships can be quite lonely too.) If you can maintain the same patience and hopeful expectations for nice relationships that you should during the rest of the year, your waiting and loneliness can be a little more tolerable.

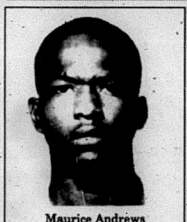

2. MATERIAL THINGS - Although the economy has picked up for some, it has not for others. If your boss or family either can't or won't bestow you with cash or presents, getting depressed won't make you any richer. Besides, money is not supposed to represent the true meaning of the holidays, right? Try to be thankful for what you do have. If you don't have much, then develop a plan or strategy that you can follow for next year to get more of what you want. 3. SPIRITUAL CONTENTMENT - Those who are seeking spiritual peace might not get it. Those who are not even searching, almost definitely won't. Yet rich or poor, young or old, it is potentially attainable by all. A sense of spiritual ease involves an ongoing process of accepting others as well as yourself. It involves enjoying and appreciating the details of the world around you. Negative details can be looked at as guidelines or warning markers that you want to try to, avoid in your own life. Positive accomplishments in others can be looked at as inspirations/goals for your own search for a more fulfilled life. If you feel down or troubled you can realize that these feelings reflect your personality, your dreams, and your desires. Sadness can be used as motivation to direct your spiritual search. If the holiday blues cause you to reflect on your life, then use your reflections to define and follow a better path for yourself.

If you would like to anonymously inquire about issues regarding yourself or your acquaintances, you may do so by writing to Dr. Boltson. You don't even have to give your name or address. Just mail all questions to:

Gator Tales

The month of November is over halfway through and with it comes the end of the second six weeks. Results of this grading period should be in parents' hands by the end of the week. Hope it's good news for everyone!

Glades Day School's National Honor Society is sponsoring a canned food drive for Thanksgiving. Parents, faculty and students are encouraged to contribute non-perishable foods by next Tuesday, Nov. 23, for those who are less fortunate. Students may bring their donations to their first period teachers.

Students in grades 6-8 were recommended to dress their best last week when they attended the Kravis Center in West Palm Beach to see a showing of 'The Miracle Worker'. For many, it was their first time inside the center and they were suitably awed by the grandeur. Remarks went from "beautiful" to "awesome" in describing the place. "And the show was good, too," remarked one seventh grader.

Good news for students - GDS will not have school this Friday, Nov. 19. Several teachers will be attending the Florida Council of Independent Schools in Miami. Of course, it helps that the varsity football playoff is the same day in the same city, so they'll be able to go from the convention to the game against Miami Westminster.

Morales, Marie Petithomme, Janie Vera, and Katrina Wisper.

Sophomores: Sofia Altamirano, Zoraida Browning, Wilner Esta, Camille Ford, Stacey Hutchinson, Veronica Mendoza, Justina Palmer, Milton Ponce, and Yolanda Rodriguez.

For those of you who aren't aware yet, the time and place of the playoff game has been changed from 3 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Friday and it will be held at Miami Dade Christian. Directions are available in the school office. GDS will be having a pep rally at 2 p.m. Thursday afternoon in the gym.

Parents & students - Tuesday will be the last day to order the 1994 Gator yearbook. The cost is $36 for seniors; $34 for underclassmen. Those who order by this Thursday, Nov. 18, will be eligible for a drawing for a free yearbook. Two drawings will be held - one for the elementary and one for the high school.

Thanksgiving is coming up next week and the Gators will be celebrating a little early. We will have Wednesday, Thursday and Friday off for a five-day weekend. Everyone is certainly looking forward to the break!

Students will be entertained each period Friday with short plays and skills in a library show, sponsored by the Student Council with Sarah Bennett supervising. Through their English classes, students may attend with the price of admission being two canned goods, to be distributed through the council's Food for Families. We'll take a break and have fun for all.

Eustis and Marie Blackwell celebrate 50th anniversary

The children of Eustis and Marie Blackwell invite their family and friends to attend the 50th wedding anniversary celebration of their parents on Sunday, Nov. 28, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Canal Point United Methodist Church in the Maxson Fellowship Hall.

Eustis and Marie Blackwell

To make this event more meaningful, the children are asking friends to take a moment to write down any thoughts, feelings or experiences they've shared with the couple over the years.

Give or mail the information to Diane and Dennis Wagner at P.O. Box 309, Canal Point, Florida, 33438, as soon as possible (before Thanksgiving) so it can be shared with everyone at the celebration.

Birth

Wally and Cindy Lutz of Belle Glade announce the birth of their daughter, Emily Anne, born Oct. 18 at Good Samaritan Hospital, West Palm Beach.

Emily was 7 pounds, 10 ounces at birth and was 21 inches in length.

Maternal grandparents are Jim and Dot Conway of Leesburg. Paternal grandparents are Wallace and Theresa Lutz of Pine Island.

Emily joins her 2-year-old brother, Chad, at home.

Laks artwork on display

A new art show by artist Marjorie Laks opened at the First National Bank in West Palm Beach at 411 North County Road. This display of art works can be seen during banking hours. The exhibit will be on display through Nov. 31.

Ms. Laks, who had been a long time resident of Pahokee, before moving to West Palm Beach, is an active member of the Glades Art League, the Artist Guild of the Norton Museum, a member of the Lake Worth Art League, and the Wellington Art Society.

This exhibition will be on display until the end of November. For more information on the artist or her paintings call 407-684-8935.

Miss Rosenwald crowned during Coronation

As the strains of "One Moment in Time" drifted on the morning breeze, the Rosenwald School Homecoming Court was presented in the annual Coronation ceremony on Wednesday, Nov. 3. Each grade level queen was announced and escorted to her seat of honor, with the highlight being the introduction of Jennifer Bolden as Miss Rosenwald.

Members of the Homecoming Court were Christy Soriano, Arthureen Sparrow, Darnesia Hodge, Khadeira Fletcher, Jamiria Brown, Miriam Cisneros, Sharonte Mann, Cynichele Vickers, Yessenia Pena, Audrey Butts, Tayva Hoffenden, Tonya Lopez, Paulina Martinez, Claudia Torres, Denise Valdez and Krystal Houze.

The girls dressed in lovely white gowns.

They were escorted by Maurice Police, Andrew Mann, Tavarious Thompson and John Wilson, Jr.

The Rosenwald Homecoming Court rode on the school's float in the Glades Central Annual Homecoming Parade on Friday, Nov. 5. They were accompanied by the Student Council, Drill Team, Baton Squad and Cub Scouts. It was a week that Queen Jennifer Bolden and her court will long remember.

On Friday, Nov. 12, Rosenwald held its annual Fall Carnival. There was sand art, balloons, lollipop pull and grab bag booths. There was also a concession stand to quench the thirst and mellow the hunger when enough fun had been achieved.

On Nov. 16 at 8 p.m., the honor roll students were presented awards at South Bay City Hall by Mayor Clarence Anthony. This is the fifth year that the mayor has awarded Rosenwald students for academic excellence. These awards are given at the end of each nine week grading period.

Rosenwald was the hub of activity Nov. 15 as it hosted several programs simultaneously.

Technology assistants in Area IV met in the computer lab to be trained to manage computers and

Glades Central Raiders defeat Pahokee in Muck Bowl; both teams in playoffs

Tammy Jackson
Staff Reporter

The Glades Central Raiders took advantage of Pahokee in the Muck Bowl and thousands of fans were at the stadium to view the outcome. The Raiders mauled Blue Devils 28-0.

Leading the Raiders to a victory was Ridell Anthony who pulled down three interceptions, threw two touchdown passes and snagged down a touchdown pass for himself.

Anthony presently has six interceptions and has caught 23 passes for 352 yards and four touchdowns.

Glades Central Head Coach Rick Casco said, "Ridell's been outstanding all year long, doing everything asked."

Pahokee and Glades Central will advance to the state playoffs.

Pahokee (ranked 8-2 in the state Class 2A poll) won the top spot in the District 7-2A title with a 4-0 record.

Glades Central (ranked 9-1 in the state 3A poll) had a 5-0 record in District 14-3A. They will meet Immokalee Friday night at Raider Stadium.

Pahokee Head Coach Mark Kaczanowicz said, "It was a tough loss. I'm not happy with the way we played. We had some chances early in the game but we made some mistakes.

He said his team has worked hard throughout the season so they could make it to the playoffs.

"We only lost to the two best football teams in the area," said Coach Kaczanowicz. "To be honest with you, maybe the loss will get us more motivated going into the playoffs because we won't feel quite as good about ourselves and we'll work real hard."

The Blue Devils fumbled the ball four times. They threw five interceptions.

The Raiders scored on their first possession of the game. Backup Quarterback Anthony and Junior Tight End Nathaniel Freeman combined to convert a fourth and 9 at the Blue Devil 13-yard line with a Raiders touchdown pass.

Glades Central's Senior Linebacker Willie McKelvin sacked Pahokee Quarterback Tyrone Richardson for a 7-yard loss when the Blue Devils tried to convert a 13-yard touchdown.

The Raiders also blocked a punt at the 34-yard line of the Blue Devils. They lifted the score to 13-0 when Anthony caught a 6-yard touchdown pass from Junior Quarterback Jajuan Seider. However, the two-point conversion was halted.

Coach Kaczanowicz said his team lost to Olympic Heights because of blocked punts.

Completing his second touchdown pass with 30.8 seconds remaining in the half, Anthony threw 18 yards to Junior Wide Receiver Demale Stanley. Seider then carried the ball in to the end zone giving Glades Central a 21-0 halftime lead.

Raider James Jackson sealed the win with a 4-yard touchdown run in the middle of the final period. Grand-Pierre's kick was good.

Junior Running Back Jackson led all rushers with 64 yards on 11 carries. Senior Running Back James Powe contributed 44 yards on 10 carries for the Raiders.

Senior Fred Taylor saw little action in the Muck Bowl. He was taken out of the game early in the second quarter with an injured ankle.

Pahokee will meet Arch Bishop Curley Notre Dame High School of Miami on Friday night in the Blue Devil Stadium. Action will get under way at 7:30 p.m.

Arch Bishop Head Coach Wayne Leffler said, "To get prepared for the game we're not going to do anything different. We've played 2A and 3A teams and we are prepared to play."

The team is ranked 3-6.

Raider fans turned out in record numbers to witness the defeat that Glades Central handed the Pahokee Blue Devils in the annual Muck Bowl. Both teams are in the playoffs with action to begin Friday evening.

Gator Mark Collier #72 takes a breather but stays on top of what is happening on the field.

Michael Hollon #64 for the Gators plays Guard and Linebacker Michael had his work cut out for him Friday, but handled it with ease.

A black and white photograph of a young man, a football player, smiling and leaning forward. He is wearing a dark football jersey with the number '48' in large white numerals. He has short, dark hair and is looking towards the camera. The background is dark and indistinct.

A black and white photograph of four cheerleaders performing a dance routine on a set of stairs. They are wearing dark-colored sweaters with white V-neck collars and white skirts with dark horizontal stripes. They are all wearing white sneakers. The cheerleader on the far left is clapping. The two in the center are in a dynamic pose, leaning forward with one leg extended. The cheerleader on the far right is also in a dynamic pose, leaning back. The background is slightly out of focus, showing what appears to be a crowd or a building.
